

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. REPORT.

TO THE HONORABLE THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK :

The Trustees of the State Library respectfully present this their Fifty-first Annual Report.

At the close of the year 1867, the whole number of volumes in the

Library was,	75,473
Of which there were in the general library,	55,577
In the law library,	19,896

At the close of the year 1868, the whole number was,

In the general library,	57,857
In the law library,	20,292

The additions for the last year were, to the general

library,	1,894
To the law library,	678

Total additions in 1868,

Of these there were acquired by purchase,	1,347
By donation and exchange,	1,225

Among the additions to the general library during the past year, the trustees would make special mention of several interesting philosophical and historical works from the library of the late Professor Dean, of this city.

An unusually large number of volumes has been added to the law library, many of which are law reports of other States. The collection of American and British reports is now nearly complete, and measures are in progress for supplying the deficiencies. The library is also especially rich in its collection of common law treatises, and it is believed that the addition of two or three hundred select volumes would place it in advance of any other in the country in that department.

The boxes provided several years since for the continuation of the British patents are filled, and the trustees respectfully recommend that another special appropriation be made for this purpose.

Additional shelving is needed in the law library, and more enclosed cases for the greater security of rare and valuable works. The trustees deem it their duty to ask that the requisite means be provided for making such additions.

For the last two years the appropriations for binding have been inadequate, not having been increased to correspond with those for the purchase of books, and with the growth of the library by donations and exchanges; a large proportion of volumes from these sources being unbound or old and poorly bound. The Legislature is, therefore, respectfully requested to increase the appropriation for this purpose to two thousand dollars, in addition to providing for the existing deficiency of nearly four hundred dollars, as appears from the financial statement hereto appended.

The trustees respectfully but earnestly renew the recommendation contained in their last annual report that a joint rule of the Senate and Assembly be adopted, providing that copies of all publications issued by State authority be deposited in the library. The want of such a rule is illustrated by the fact that urgent efforts to secure a copy of the Convention Manual of 1867, for which there have been numerous calls by State officers, judges and others, were not, until within the past month, successful.

It seems reasonable that the State should place copies of all its own publications in its library.

The usual statement of cash receipts and expenditures, of books, pamphlets, maps, coins, medals, etc., acquired by donation and exchange, and of volumes catalogued and placed on the shelves of the Library, during the year 1868, is hereto appended.

Respectfully submitted, by order of the trustees,

JOHN V. L. PRUYN,
Chancellor of the University.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New York:

The Trustees of the State Library respectfully present this their Fifty-second Annual Report.

At the close of the year 1868, the whole number of volumes in the Library was,	78,047
Of which there were in the general library,	57,474
In the law library,	20,573

At the close of the year 1869, the whole number was,	80,293
In the general library,	59,045
In the law library,	21,248

The additions for the year 1869, were:

To the general library,	1,571
To the law library,	675

Total additions in 1869,	2,246
Of these there were acquired by purchase,	1,208
By donation and exchange,	1,038

The trustees take pleasure in stating, that, during the past year, they have received from Messrs. Macmillan & Co., of London, as a donation to the general library, one hundred and thirty-six volumes of their publications, a list of which is included in the annexed catalogue of donations.

The number of volumes added to the Law Library is nearly equal to that of the preceding year, which was unusually large as compared with the additions of several former years. The collection of British Law Reports is nearly complete. Only three volumes of American Law Reports are wanted, and it is hoped that these may yet be secured.

The additional shelving required in the Law Library and the boxes needed for the British patents, as stated in the last annual report of the trustees, have been supplied from the means specially provided for these purposes by the Legislature at its last session.

It appears, from the annexed financial statement, that the deficiency in the appropriation for binding, to which reference was made in the last annual report, has been but slightly reduced; and the Legislature is, therefore, respectfully requested to make a special appropriation to meet this deficiency.

The trustees take pleasure in adverting to the fact, that, in accordance with their recommendation, an amendment to the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly was adopted at the last session, providing that copies of all publications, issued by State authority, be deposited in the State Library. It is hoped that it may be the pleasure of the Legislature to make this rule permanent, by enacting the same into a law. It seems reasonable that the State should preserve copies of all its publications in its library.

The usual statement of cash receipts and expenditures; of books, pamphlets, maps, coins, medals, etc., acquired by donation and exchange; and of volumes catalogued and placed on the shelves of the Library, during the year 1869, is hereto appended.

Respectfully submitted, by order of the trustees,

JOHN V. L. PRUYN,

Chancellor of the University.

The library has a system of exchange with all the States of the Union, with the United States government, with several of the countries of Europe, and with many literary and scientific societies of the United States and of foreign countries.

The laws, documents and law reports of our own State are exchanged for those of other States, and the reports made to the Legislature on the colleges and academies, on the State Museum of Natural History and on the library, bring in return the publications of societies and educational institutions, and many miscellaneous works from individuals. It will be noted that the additions during the past year by donation and exchange, are more than one-third of the total increase.

The centennial year of the nation has furnished the occasion of many local celebrations in which our early history has been investigated, and the results have been published in the form of addresses, many of which have brought to light facts of great interest, which were rapidly being forgotten. By means of extended correspondence, more than 150 such addresses have been received, and to these it is expected that others will be added.

The library is thus made the repository of documents which shed light on the early history of the State and country, and from which the future historian may draw important materials for his work.

The trustees have pleasure in referring to the fact that, in the year in which the nation has passed its hundredth anniversary, the library has passed the number of 100,000 volumes. They also bear willing testimony to the faithfulness and zeal with which its officers have discharged their duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the trustees.

JOHN V. L. PRUYN,

Chancellor of the University.

S. B. WOOLWORTH,

Secretary.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New York :

The trustees of the State Library respectfully present this their Sixtieth Annual Report :

At the close of the year 1876, the number of volumes in the library was	100,772
---	---------

Of which there were in the general library.....	73,035
In the law library.....	27,737

At the close of the year 1877, the number was.....	104,010
--	---------

In the general library.....	75,302
In the law library.....	28,708

The additions in the year 1877 were :

To the general library	2,267
To the law library.....	971

Total additions in 1877	3,238
-------------------------------	-------

Of these were acquired by purchase.....	2,017
By donation and exchange	1,221

The usual catalogues of additions are appended to this report.

The ordinary increase of the library has been fully maintained during the past year. The character of the books added has been nearly the same as that of former years, a large part having been historical. Centennial celebrations of interesting events, in the history of the State and country, have been held ; and every effort has been made to gather into the library addresses and other publications connected with these celebrations.

Among the additions of foreign works are many of those of William Prynn, a voluminous writer, and distinguished lawyer and statesman of the seventeenth century. "For the progress of liberty, respect for the Constitution, regard for legal precedents and triumph of law over prelates and kings, England and America owe more to Prynne than to any other man, ancient or modern." Memoranda, on his character and writings, prepared by the Librarian of the general library, are appended to this report.

LAW LIBRARY.

The works in this department of the library are in daily and constant use in the courts, the Legislature, by State officers and members of the bar. The public documents of this and other States, and of the nation, are believed to be more nearly complete than those of any other library. One hundred and fifty volumes, folio, of the parliamentary papers of Great Britain, have been added during the past year. This series of valuable papers is now complete from 1844 to 1851, and from 1869 to 1876. Those of the intervening years will be secured as soon as they can be obtained at prices within the means of the trustees. In addition to these, the library has many volumes not within those years. The completing of the set, from the beginning of the English settlement of this country, is very desirable, and would greatly enrich the library.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS.

The efforts of the Librarian have secured those of past years, so far, probably, as they exist and can be obtained. The law of the last session, which requires the clerks of those boards to transmit to this library a copy of the proceedings, annually, will secure those of the future.

The extension of the power of local legislation, now vested in these boards, renders the preservation of their records of great importance. This library has the only general collection of such records.

The library has received from the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, a complete set of the printed papers used in the trial of the causes submitted to that body, in fifty-five volumes, octavo. These volumes were furnished by Mr. John Davis, clerk of the court, on the application of Hon. Robert S. Hale, one of the trustees of the library.

The trustees have under consideration some modification of the rules which govern the administration of the library, which will be communicated to the Legislature as soon as they are perfected.

The library has outgrown the room provided for it. Books are placed in double rows on the shelves, and all available space is full. No department of the State has more pressing need of the completion of the new Capitol than the State Library.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the trustees,

E. C. BENEDICT,

Chancellor of the University.

S. B. WOOLWORTH,

Secretary.

STATE LIBRARY, ALBANY, February 28, 1878.

MEMORANDA

ON THE WORKS OF WILLIAM PRYNNE, PREPARED, AT THE REQUEST OF THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE, BY THE LIBRARIAN OF THE GENERAL LIBRARY.

Mr. Henry Stevens, of London, having sent to the library a large proportion of the works of William Prynne, a leading parliamentarian, published between the years 1628 and 1670, I have been requested to embody in a statement such facts, bearing upon the value of the collection, as might aid the library committee to form an opinion as to the expediency of purchasing it.

Each succeeding decade of years is enhancing the value, in the public estimation, of the writings of Prynne. After defending, for more than a score of years, the rights of the people, and of the commonwealth, he is found, finally, defending the restoration of Charles II, but always in the name of the same rights and of the fundamental law of England. He was the unvarying opponent of ecclesiastical control in civil affairs, and on account of these principles has frequently been spoken of in contemptuous language, as by A. Wood, in his Athenæ Oxonienses.

Notwithstanding the violence and vituperation in which he indulged, while defending either the cause of the people, or of the King, his merits are acknowledged by Francis Hargrave, who died in 1821, in the following language, in his introduction to Sir M. Hale's Jurisdiction of the Lord's House; or Parliament considered, according to ancient records. Lond., 1796, p. lxxxvi:

"Throughout his legal writings, he is continually carping at that great oracle of our law, Lord Coke, with a very disgusting coarseness. And it is sometimes a fashion to countenance Prynne in such licentious disrespect. At the same time, it is but justice to him to acknowledge, that his contributions to the elucidation of our law and history, more especially in points relative to our government and constitution, are very numerous and important; that his laborious collections from records, and other the best sources, are highly valuable; and that his remarks, though frequently disfigured by the ungovernableness of his bigotry and of his outrageous prejudices, and ever to be received with peculiar caution, evince great force of intellect; and often administer vast aid to the most sober and profound inquiry."

No injustice will be done to Prynne, after this appreciative and honorable testimonial, if we quote the language of Bp. Nicolson, uttered eighty years previously, in his English Historical Library:

"The voluminous Will. Prynne has also carefully and largely informed us of the public occurrences of this reign, as well as the two next following, in order to the asserting and vindicating of the ancient sovereignty of our English monarchs against all foreign encroachments and innovations whatever." p. 79.

"Hitherto we have mentioned only such as have written the history of our prelacy with an honest intent. We have others that made it their business to daub with false paint. * * * The last of this gang was that eternal scribbler, Wm. Prynne, who raked together all the dirt that had been thrown at any of our bishops by the most inveterate and implacable of enemies, and heaped it into a large dunghill-book, inscribed 'The Antipathie.' * * * But 'tis time to rid our hands of this filth and nastiness." p. 125.

Bishop Nicolson, in spite of his own condemnation, is compelled frequently to refer to Prynne, as a valuable authority, in such sentences as this: "In his animadversions upon Coke, a great many misquotations of the Records, etc., are noted." (pp. 117, 191, 196); while Wood, whose strong prejudices we have already referred to, is obliged to confess that his works are "highly useful to the antiquary, as well as to the critic and the divine."

Prynne, as a lawyer, and as a member of the Society of Lincoln's Inn, had, during his life, given to its library copies of his publications.

W. H. Spilsbury, the librarian, in his account of Lincoln's Inn, published in 1850, says of Prynne's writings:

"The indefatigable industry of the author in the investigation of innumerable documents, many of which are no longer in existence, has been found of great use to the practical lawyer, in cases involving questions of ecclesiastical jurisdiction, by the direct references to, and numerous transcripts of original records, which the work contains." p. 287.

The same author is also the writer of an article in the Law Review (1849), on Prynne's Records, in which he says:

"His character has hitherto not been justly appreciated. His memorable speech in favor of his sovereign * * * gives evidence of the magnanimity of his disposition, and serves to redeem his character from the indiscriminate censure cast upon it by some distinguished men." vol. 10, p. 432.

"The writer who could quote a hundred authors on so unpromising a subject as 'The Unloveliness of Love-locks,' and ten times that number in his Histrion Mastix, is undoubtedly of great value, as affording materials to aid the researches of the inquiring student." p. 434.

Isaac D'Israeli, in his paper on Prynne, in his Calamities of Authors, and entitled "A Voluminous Author without Judgment," says:

"His activity and the firmness and intrepidity of his character, in public life, were as ardent as they were in his study; his soul was Roman; Charles II dignified him with the title of 'the Cato of the age;' and one of his own party described him as 'William the Conqueror,' a title he had most hardly earned by his inflexible and invincible nature."

The biographical fragment on Prynne, by the late John Bruce, published this year in one of the volumes of the Camden Society, in London, is the latest evidence I have to offer of the increasing interest taken in the writings of Prynne. His preface commences in this manner:

"His works, and the circumstances of his personal history, considered simply by themselves, deserve the attention of the scholar and the historian; but, taken in connection with the general incidents of the times in which he lived, they acquire a much higher importance, and have a far more extensive application. Viewed in that relation, they enlarge our knowledge of the momentous transactions which occurred in England between 1625 and 1660; they give us views of men and events, nearer and more distinct than can be derived from the wide survey of the general historian; and they enable us—which is more valuable than anything else—to drink deep into the general spirit of that eventful period. It is of the greatest importance that the history of that birth-time of our modern freedom, and our consequent greatness, should be thoroughly understood.”

As a remarkable confirmation of what I have alleged, regarding the modern estimate of the high value to be ascribed to Prynne's writings, I would refer to the pages of the latest Dictionary of Authors, that of Allibone. He devotes more space to an account of Prynne and his writings than had been contained in any preceding dictionary. He gives many quotations, and from many authors, of their opinions on the subject, and they are all in addition to what I have cited from other sources, old and new, and well worth perusal, and are confirmatory of those statements on the importance and value of his works. I cannot refrain, however, from one quotation, a few lines, as Mr. Allibone observes, “handed us by a black-letter student (a judge in one of the courts of the United States), expressive of his own opinion”: * * *

“The profoundness of his learning, and the accuracy of his report of the materials which he has brought to light, and the consummate ability with which he discusses the interesting and important subjects of his works, have given an undeserved reputation to his intellectual productions. * * * His judgment bore no proportion to his intelligence. While we borrow from the rich stores which his zeal and industry have accumulated, we cannot follow him as a guide. Accurately as he reports his materials, his use of them is injudicious and unfair.”

This unwearied student and unflinching patriot, who had twice been in the pillory, twice had had his ears cropped, and had been repeatedly imprisoned by the governments of conflicting parties, for speaking what he believed to be important truth, on entering London on a return from an imprisonment, was received amid the acclamations of ten thousand citizens, with boughs and flowers in their hands. He died in 1669, while compiling and deciphering historical records as assiduously as at any previous period of his life.

The testimonies which we have quoted are sufficient to establish, if there were any need of doing it, the intrinsic value of Prynne's writings. As to its relative value, compared with other collections of his writings, it is worth observing that the collection offered by Mr. Stevens contains one hundred and twenty-three volumes, of which a very few are those of writers who controverted the published opinions of Prynne, and are no less rare and valuable than the writings which called them forth. Mr. Cooper's list contained but eight folio volumes of Prynne; and the Catalogue of Lincoln's Inn Library contains but seven; as this collection of Mr. Stevens contains six, it falls but little short of being as valuable as either of these. The rarity and scarcity of the volumes embraced appears from the consideration that while the printed list of those in the Lincoln's Inn Library contains but twenty of his works, published previous to 1641, Mr. Stevens' collection contains twenty-six, and is, therefore, richest for that period when his works would naturally be the most scarce.

The Lincoln's Inn collection of Prynne, in 1859, contained but 152 titles, of which five were second editions and eight were only broadsides. Since the sale of Brackett's collection, and the distribution of its contents, the collection here offered will be larger than any other existing, with the exception just noted and of that of the British Museum.

Mr. Stevens is preparing for publication, in England, a full new biography of Prynne, introductory to a catalogue of over two hundred photographed titles of volumes published by Prynne, or in opposition to him.
